

Spiritual Warfare

Spiritual Warfare is the Christian encounter with evil supernatural powers led by Satan and his army of fallen angels, generally called demons or evil spirits. The original battle was between Satan and God, but on the level of the heavenlies, the war has been won decisively by God (Col. 2:15; 1John 3:8). On earth the battles continue, but the issue is to determine not who will win but whether God's people will appropriate the victory won for them by the cross and the resurrection.

The conflict began in the Garden of Eden as recorded in Genesis 3 and will continue until the fulfillment of the events predicted in Revelation 20. Scripture makes it clear that Satan leads the anti-God and anti-Christian forces as "the prince of this world" (John 12:31; 14:30; 16:11) or "the god of this world" (2Cor. 4:4) and as a leader of the fallen angels (Matt. 25:41). It is also clear, however, that although Satan gained some measure of control through the events in the garden, God retains ultimate sovereignty over his creation. God's people are assured of victory in the battle when they engage the enemy on the basis of faith and obedience--the conditions set by God in his covenant with Israel and the implications of submitting to God in James 4:7.

Every battle Israel fought in the conquest of Canaan was won or lost on spiritual considerations. When Israel obeyed God's commands and acted on the basis of faith, God gave them victory no matter what the military situation. The battle was ultimately between God and the gods. While idols are treated in the Old Testament with contempt as utterly devoid of spiritual power (Ps. 114:4-8; Isa. 40:18-20; 44:9-20; Jer. 10:3ff), the god or spirit behind the idol was treated as real (cf. Deut. 32:17; Ps. 106:37; 1Cor. 10:18-20). Yahweh was often compared to the gods (1Kings 8:23; 1Chron. 16:25; Ps. 86:8; 96:4; 135:5). That was not a comparison with nothing. It was the sovereign God compared to the angels who were in rebellion against him.

The battle is portrayed in the Gospels and in the rest of the New Testament. Paul states clearly that "our struggle is. . . against the powers of this dark world and against the spiritual forces of evil in the heavenly realms"(Eph. 6:12). These are real enemies, and resistance against them will involve spiritual warfare. While we are assured of victory in the battle, we are never assured that we will not have to fight in the battle.

The influence of the ENLIGHTENMENT and later the evolutionary hypotheses began a process which has resulted in the secularization of the Western worldview. As a result, biblical references to the role of spirit beings in the realm of the created world are often misinterpreted or ignored in dealing with the text, and many missionaries have gone to the field with a defective worldview, resulting in serious flaws in their approach to animistic belief systems.

At the other end of the spectrum, there is a tendency to overemphasize the role of spirits which produces a Christian SYNCRETISM with ANIMISM. People use the Bible as a good luck charm to protect one from evil spirits, prescribe certain words or expressions to be used in dealing with demons, or assume that knowing the name of a demon gives more power over it. People coming from animistic backgrounds also fall into syncretism, but that is usually because the Christians who introduce them to Christ do not help them understand the Christian worldview as it relates to issues of spiritual power.

Much of this confusion stems from the fact that Satan's primary tactic is deception. That does not mean that everything a demon says is a lie. Deception gains its power by concealing the lie in surrounding truth. What is needed is discernment, not simply in responding to what a demon may say but in dealing with the deceiving spirits that are constantly trying to confuse our belief system (Rev. 12:9; 1 Tim. 4:1).

The primary issue in deception is always truth, and Satan deceives especially concerning the source of power and of knowledge. God has provided all the power and knowledge we need to live as "more than conquerors" in Christ; but ever since the Garden of Eden, Satan has been trying to cause us not to trust God to provide the power we need and to doubt our ability to know God and to trust the Word of God.

Satan uses his power to cause us to fear him. For Christians to fear Satan they must first doubt the power and provision of God for victory over Satan. Thus he accomplishes two goals: to cause Christians to doubt God and to gain some measure of control over them through fear.

But Satan will also seek to entice people--believers or unbelievers--to take power from him rather than from God. He comes as an angel of light and makes his power seem desirable. This brings one into contact with a long list of occult practices such as fortune telling, magic, sorcery, and witchcraft. Satan has enough power to produce some striking results--"counterfeit miracles, signs and wonders"(2Thess. 2:10). Some people only ask, "Does it work?" rather than "Is it from God; is it true?" Many people end up with a spiritual stronghold in their lives because they have fallen for Satan's deceptive use of power.

Ultimately spiritual warfare is the battle for the mind. Satan knows that people will always live what they really believe, even if they do not live what they profess to believe. Since one's belief about God is foundational to all other beliefs, Satan will almost always begin by trying to pervert one's belief about the character of God. It happened in Eden. Satan said that God's statement about dying if people ate of the fruit was a lie and that God could therefore not be trusted. He also implied that God could not love them and withhold that beautiful, desirable fruit from them. Once they began to question the integrity of God, they came under Satan's control.

It appears that Satan's great desire is to be God (Luke 4:5-7; 2Thess. 2:3, 4). This is also seen in the Old Testament in the conflict between God and the gods. As noted above, the real power behind the "gods" in the Old Testament is Satan and his host of evil spirits. This same principle applies to all religious systems which set forth a god other than the Yahweh of Scripture. So the battle is still in process. Unfortunately, many missionaries have failed to help their converts make a thorough worldview change from an animistic view in which the spirit world is manipulable to a Christian view in which a sovereign God is in control. Not only can God not be manipulated by us, there is absolutely nothing we can do to commend ourselves to God. We are utterly dependent on his grace as a means of dealing with our sin and relating to him on a daily basis. The very definition of sin is dependent on one's view of the holiness and sovereignty of God. A low view of sin stems from a low view of God.

Thus winning in spiritual warfare always needs to begin with a right view of God and with a right view of what it means to be a child of God. If we say that we are children of God by faith but believe that we have to earn our daily standing with God, we become the victims of an impossible situation. By grace God makes us "co-heirs with Christ"(Rom. 8:17)--a standing which we could never earn by our own efforts. Believing that this is indeed our position "in Christ" provides the only viable position from which to resist the enemy. The battle looks very different from the vantage point of the throne of God than it does from the context of the circumstances of our lives on earth.

In missionary ministry this battle may well be more like a POWER ENCOUNTER than the battle for the mind which underlies it. Paul says that his call was "open their eyes, to bring them from darkness to light, and from the power of Satan to God"(Acts 26:18). Thus evangelism is a kind of power encounter, and converts need to understand clearly that they are moving from one realm of spiritual power to another.

Often associated with conversion is the destruction of objects used in non-Christian religious practices. This is a visible renunciation of the old ways and old worldview, but it is also a challenge to the "gods" behind the objects to defend themselves if they are able.

Missionaries may well see overt demonic activity, and they need to know how to minister with confidence in such a situation. Many places have been opened to the gospel through seeing a person set free from evil spirits. Spiritual practitioners in other religions may challenge Christians to demonstrate their power in a variety of ways. The missionary needs to be prepared to respond appropriately. Ultimately prayer may be the most important weapon in the Christian's arsenal against the enemy.
